MADE POSSIBLE BY THE GRAINGER FOUNDATION

INTRODUCING HPL'S NEW INNOVATIVE PROGRAMMING SPACE

LAB 316, made possible by the generous donations of The Grainger Foundation, is your library's new collaborative programming space focused on providing hands-on, innovative activities.

Don & Geraldine Hedberg used the library as an incubator and research facility while developing their business, Lab Safety Supply. They were so grateful for the library's role in their success, they donated more than $4 million to the building's 1997 renovation.

As we gratefully accepted The Grainger Foundation's donation, we couldn't help but consider and commemorate the full-circle moment. Lab Safety Supply was acquired by Grainger, Inc. in 1992, which made the Hedberg's support all-the-more possible. Naming the space LAB 316 allowed us to pay homage to the company and the family that made Hedberg Public Library what it is today, while also recognizing and appreciating the continued support of The Grainger Foundation.

Stop by LAB 316, located next to Teen Central along the south wall of the library, and take a look at what's happening. Stay tuned for future developments and additions to the space that we hope will inspire future entrepreneurs and creators.
